Notes 5

Question 1

ls

- Definition
  - List directory content
- Usage
  - Used for listing the content og a given directory or file/directory itself. Examples
  - List everything in long listing format
    - ls -la

pwd

- Definition
  - Print name of current/working directory
- Usage
  - Displays the current working directory (where your currently working.)
- Examples
  - pwd

cd

- Definition
  - Changes the current working directory. In other words, moves around you
- Usage
  - If you want to go to your home directory
  - cd ~
- Examples
  - Change to the downloads file
    - cd Downloads *Change from current directory back to home.
    - cd ../

Question 2

1. What is a variable
    1. Is a container or a placeholder for data
2. How do I use a variable?
    1. Can be used with other commands in the script.
3. What is an environment variable?
    1. Used by the shell to track specific system information and user information.
4. What is a user defines variable?
    1. Temporarily store data and use it throughout the script - like programming language
5. What is the root directory?
    1. The first directory in the file system, and contains the subdirectories that makes the computer.
6. What does "Parent Directory" mean?

    1. a particluar directory you can move forward to a subdirectory or backwards to the previous directory.
7. What does "Current working directory" mean?
    1. The directory where you are at the moment.
8. What is an absolute path? Include an example?
    1. The location of a file starting at the root of the file system.
    - Example: /home/leo/Downloads/song.mp3
9. What is a relative path? Include an example
    1. the location of a file starting from the current working directory or a directory that is located inside the current working directory.
    - Downloads/song.mp3
10. What is the difference between "Your home directory" and "The home directory"?
    1. Your home directory is your current working directory meanwhile the home directory is when you open the file manager.